

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for and method of processing a call to native script in a service built by a 5 Component Builder for a legacy data base management system. The service built by the Component Builder consists of a series of steps. One or more of these steps may be a call to a native script subroutine contained in a repository in the legacy data base management system.